1	The TOR requires the engagement of five Key Personnel to implement the assignment. While TOR provides specific qualification requirements for five Key Personnel, it is not explicit about expected responsibilities and tasks from each expert. Question 1. Could you kindly clarify if UNDP has particular expectations regarding tasks to be performed by each team member?	UNDP leave this open for Partners to manage. The applicants may also suggest if they recommend additional resources.
2	Question 2. Subject to availability of relevant expertise and experience in evaluating projects of similar scope through applying mixed methods (qualitative and quantitative) of data collection and analysis, including CBA, can one Expert cover several roles required by the TOR? i.e., our nominated Team Leader has relevant experience and knowledge to cover the Financial Analysis (VfM) Expert, Qualitative and Quantitative Research Analyst roles. This expert will be responsible for overall technical deliverables of the project, development of the overall research framework, approach, methods and data collection tools, implementation plan, conducting remote KIIs, data analysis and reporting. However, the Team Leader will be supported by one Gender Expert and one Local Consultant/Co-Evaluator in the preparation and organization of the data collection process, collecting and analyzing project-related primary and secondary qualitative and quantitative data.	UNDP think every position to be filled by individual staff members, however, there is no restriction if the partners would wish to suggest one person taking multiple positions with the justification. The reasonability of the proposal will be assessed by the expert evaluation committee and could impact the scoring of the applicant
