WHO may, at its discretion, ask any bidder for clarification of any part of its proposal. The request for clarification and the response shall be in writing. No change in price or substance of the proposal shall be sought, offered or permitted during this exchange.

- c) Accept or reject any proposal, and to annul the solicitation process and reject all proposals at any time prior to award of contract, without thereby incurring any liability to the affected bidder or bidders and without any obligation to inform the affected bidder or bidders of the grounds for WHO's action;

At any time during the evaluation/selection process, WHO reserves the right to modify the scope of the work, services and/or goods called for under this RFP. WHO shall notify the change to only those bidders who have not been officially eliminated due to technical reasons at that point in time.

WHO reserves the right at the time of award of contract to extend, reduce or otherwise revise the scope of the work, services and/or goods called for under this RFP without any change in the base price or other terms and conditions offered by the selected bidder.

WHO also reserves the right to enter into negotiations with one or more bidders of its choice, including but not limited to negotiation of the terms of the proposal(s), the price quoted in such proposal(s) and/or the deletion of certain parts of the work, components or items called for under this RFP.

Within 30 days of receipt of the contract between WHO and the successful bidder (the "Contract"), the successful bidder shall sign and date the Contract and return it to WHO according to the instructions provided at that time. Annex 1: Detailed Terms of Reference

1. Purpose of the Consultancy

The purpose of this consultancy is to support and coordinate the revision and update of “WHO guidelines on the pharmacological treatment of persisting pain in children with medical illnesses” which was published in 2012. The scope will include a draft of the guideline document.

2. Background

Pain in children is a public health concern of major significance in most parts of the world. For many children, this pain is chronic. As the leading cause of morbidity in children and adolescents in the world today, chronic disease (and its associated pain) is a major health concern. Pain lasting for longer than 3 months is defined as “chronic,” and is reported by approximately 25% of children and adolescents. The first approach to manage pain is often pharmacological.

The WHO guidelines for pharmacological treatments for children's persisting pain acknowledge that pain in children is a major public health concern of high significance in most parts of the world. While in the past, pain was largely dismissed and was frequently left untreated, the relief of pain is now seen as important.

The 2012 WHO guideline document, which is in need of updating, was discontinued in 2019 to allow for a revision that takes into consideration current scientific evidence that has emerged since the time of their publication and addresses current public health challenges relevant to the pharmacological treatment of persisting pain in children with medical illnesses.

3. Planned timelines (subject to confirmation)

Start date: 10/01/2019

End date: 30/06/2020

4. Work to be performed

The perspectives sought should be around: (i) safety and efficacy of use of medicines for pain in children, (ii) dependence and misuse potential, and (iii) the public health benefits and risks of different strategies for ensuring appropriate access.

The synthesis of qualitative evidence should include the perspective of both those implementing (e.g. hospital personnel) and those benefiting (children and their families) from the pharmacologic management of persisting pain in children, that is:

- The cognitive and emotional response to the intervention, outcome and their potential risks
- The extent to which the intervention and risks are seen to be appropriate or desirable
- Sociocultural acceptability of the intervention and risks to the public and other relevant stakeholder groups
- Impact on autonomy of concerned stakeholders

Deliverable 1.1: Analytic framework for systematic review

Deliverable 1.2: Search strategy

Deliverable 1.3: Collection, synthesis and CERQual assessment of evidence

Deliverable 1.5: Presentation of the findings to the Guideline Development Group

Output 2: Coordination of the guideline process and drafting of guideline document.

Deliverable 2.1: Convene and facilitate the meeting of the guideline development group (GDG) to define the scope and prioritize the outcomes for the guideline

- Deliverable 2.2: Coordinate and synthesize the results of a public consultation on the scope of the guideline
- Deliverable 2.3: Finalize the planning proposal, based on inputs from the guideline development group (GDG) and public consultation on the scope of the guideline
- Deliverable 2.4: Collate all evidence into the evidence-to-decision framework in preparation for the GDG meeting to formulate recommendations
- Deliverable 2.5: Convene and facilitate the meeting of the GDG to interpret the evidence presented, come to consensus, and formulate recommendations
